

Four arrested for Facebook comments on mosque plan

POLICE have arrested four people for racially aggravated intentional harassment after messages were posted on the internet website Facebook about proposals to build a mosque in Harlow.

In the same week that the mosque plans were withdrawn following a public outcry, Essex Police confirmed the four were arrested for making potentially illegal comments in a discussion group.

All four are male and aged 20, 22, 23 and 25. Three are from Harlow and the fourth from Sawbridgeworth.

The arrests followed the Star's front page story last week, which included examples of some of the messages on the Facebook website. The identities of the authors were obscured in the report.

However, friends of the Sawbridgeworth man have now used Facebook to set up a new discussion group to register their outrage at his arrest.

Many of those who have signed up claim his comments were not racist but merely taken out of context. A number of contributors accuse the police of over-reacting while several also lay the blame for his arrest on the Star.

A police spokeswoman said all four have been bailed to return to Harlow Police Station on June 13. The original Facebook discussion group has now been removed.

Harlow North opponents consider legal challenge to homes blueprint

THE Government announced this week it is to plough ahead with its housing plans which could see thousands of new homes built on countryside to the north of Harlow.

The East of England Plan, a 20-year strategy for housing growth in the east of England, was finally published on Monday.

Despite consultations provoking significant public opposition and an independent inspector rejecting the idea two years ago, a new community at Harlow North is back on the agenda.

By BEN WILKINSON, Chief Reporter
wilkinsonb@hertsessexnews.co.uk

The announcement is a blow to the STOP Harlow North campaign which may now decide to mount a legal challenge to the plans.

"It may be necessary for the courts to rule on whether the Government's actions are lawful," said secretary

Nigel Clark. "We will be consulting with others on the next steps."

With the document now in its final Government-approved version, it recommends that a total of 508,000 homes should be built in the region by 2021, 16,000 of them in and around Harlow.

Of these, at least 10,000 are likely to be at Harlow North – which is part of the East Hertfordshire district – and many more over the town's southern or western borders in Epping Forest.

On top of this, East Herts and Epping Forest have their own housing quotas to meet. Local authorities will have some say as to how their housing targets are spread across their areas.

STOP Harlow North said it was deeply disappointed at the plan. "We have always argued that the plans for 10,000 houses north of Harlow were fundamentally flawed, unnecessary, unsustainable and undemocratic," said Mr Clark.

Plans for town's mosque shelved

PLANS to create a mosque on the site of a former recreation centre in Harlow have been withdrawn in the face of public outcry.

Harlow Islamic Community Centre had applied to convert the dilapidated Kingsmoor Recreation Centre, in Paringdon Road, into a mosque.

But the Muslim group, which already owns the building, has now abandoned the plan after widespread objections.

However, speaking to the Star this week, project manager Mohamed Wadiwala did not rule out the possibility of submitting an amended application in the future.

"It is clear from the response of the local residents that there is a gross lack of understanding on their part as to what is proposed here, undoubtedly due to unknown fears and prejudices," he said.

"The existing site has been operating as a temporary community centre since its acquisition in November 2006 and, as far as I'm aware, has not received any formal or informal complaints whatsoever. Why should people complain now? Nothing will change except the appearance of the building."

Mr Wadiwala dismissed concerns that a proposed 'body-washing' facility - where corpses are traditionally prepared for burial - would be inappropriate because of the building's location next to Milwards School playground.

By CHRIS MOSS
moss@hertssexnews.co.uk

"It is not our intention to have corpses on display in view of the public," he said. "In fact, the public would be none the wiser if corpses were ferried in and out of the building as they would be enshrouded or in caskets."

"You could walk past an undertaker's along any High Street and not be concerned that there are corpses being bathed and dressed and sometimes stored for weeks in freezers, yet suddenly there is concern that there could be a similar thing adjacent to a school playground."

Morningtons resident John Downes, who arranged a public meeting to oppose the plans two weeks ago, welcomed the news. "Given the level of opposition to these plans, I hope Harlow Council will now look at finding a more suitable location for a mosque," he said.

"It's important to make it clear that residents were never opposed to a mosque being built in Harlow, it's just that the proposed site was not suitable for a number of planning reasons, including the potential car parking problems."

"I would now call on the council to open up a public forum for debate as to where such a place of worship could be located. Personally, I think the town centre would be more suitable as it is easily accessible and has plenty of parking spaces."

Couple's diamond day

HARLOW couple Eddie and Lil Edwards prove their marriage is as strong as diamond as they celebrate 60 years of wedded bliss today (Thursday).

The pair first met at a dance hall in Wimbledon in 1945 and tied the knot after a two year courtship, setting up home in Harlow in 1956.

They have three children - two sons and a daughter - plus five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mr Edwards (80) said: "We have our little ups and downs but nothing untoward."

Mrs Edwards (79) added: "It is all about give and take, being understanding and having a bit of luck."

The couple, of Tilbury Mead, were treated by their family to a holiday to Tenerife and will complete their celebrations with a party on Saturday.

Harlow North stays despite opposition

"The proposals for Harlow North have been included despite massive public opposition and without addressing the many serious planning flaws we have highlighted."

Essex County Council also warned the plans were unsustainable and would create "commuter ghost towns" which could have a devastating impact.

But Harlow MP Bill Rammell said the strategy marked solid progress in providing the homes and infrastructure the town needs.

"I particularly welcome the fact it will be for local councils locally to decide exact housing numbers in particular locations, which means that major developments can take place north of Harlow to avoid overcrowding in Harlow," he said.

The new Conservative administration at Harlow Council is also supporting the proposals.

Council leader Andrew Johnson welcomed the plan's "positive" messages for Harlow, including the safeguarding of the Gibberd masterplan.

"Although it is disappointing the plan still includes some limited development to the south and west of the town, we will work with our neighbouring councils and partners to create clear boundaries to the town and avoid urban sprawl," he said.

Harlow Conservative Parliamentary candidate Robert Halfon, who has fought two general elections on saving local Green Belt, appeared resigned to defeat.

"I have always believed the Government's national housing targets are arbitrary and unsustainable," he said.

"Like many local residents I passionately believe in the preservation of our environment, countryside and Green Belt, and consider that extra housing should evolve organically rather than be imposed."

"For this reason it is a shame this state of affairs has come to pass."

A spokesman for Land Securities and Places for People, which last month announced a joint venture to acquire more than 2,400 acres from Ropemaker Properties at Harlow North, said: "We are delighted that the area to the north of Harlow has been identified for potential development in the final East of England Plan."

"We are still assessing the full contents of the document but we look forward to moving forward with developing our plans over the coming months, working with the local community and other interested parties."

Drug addict sent to jail for dealing in cocaine

A DRUG addict has been jailed for two-and-a-half years after police found cocaine at his home.

Kwok-Yeung Man (28), of Kingsland, Harlow, spent up to £150 a day on cocaine and sold drugs to fund his addiction.

He broke down sobbing at Chelmsford Crown Court as the sentence was passed on Thursday after he had admitted possessing just over 12 grammes of cocaine with intent to supply.

Judge Charles Gratwicke told him: "I accept you were selling them to fund your own addiction but by acting in the way you did you were facilitating the distribution of cocaine into the community."

He added he was reducing the sentence he would otherwise have passed because Man had glowing references from those around him.

Colette Kelly, in mitigation, said Man had expressed deep remorse for his offending and since his arrest had sought help and is now free of drugs.

Cannabis plants seized

POLICE seized what they believe to be 100 cannabis plants in a drugs raid at Harlow's Moor Tower.

Friday's raid was carried out in response to information given to Harlow

Council's anti-social behaviour enforcement officers.

Two men, aged 19 and 26, were arrested and subsequently released on police bail until August 1.

Detective Sergeant

Steve Nelson said: "Communities are our eyes and ears and we rely on their information. It is important that the police and communities work together to combat this type of activity."

"Neighbours and residents who see or feel that there may be suspicious activity in their area should call us."

"Every observation of suspicious activity is important to us to ensure we keep our neighbourhoods safe and free of crime."

Gipsy consultation

A CONSULTATION on future gipsy site provision closes tomorrow (Friday).

The East of England Regional Assembly has recommended that hundreds of extra gipsy camp pitches be provided throughout East Anglia, including in Harlow and Epping Forest.

Town's chance to quiz police chiefs

RESIDENTS who want to find out what police are doing to tackle crime and disorder in the town can do so at a public meeting next Thursday.

Essex Police Authority, the committee which controls the funding and strategy of the county force, is to hold a Police and Community Consultative Group meeting in every policing district this year.

Next week's meeting will be at the Great Parndon Community Association in Abercrombie Way.

The forum, which starts at 7.30pm, will be chaired by an EPA member and attended by senior police chiefs as well as local police and community support officers.

As well as updating residents on the progress of neighbourhood initiatives, the meeting will also give them the chance to express their views on policing and crime issues in the area.

The meetings herald a new style of interaction for the EPA which wants to be more open and engage better with the community. In addition, it is planning to hold 'have your say' events at supermarkets and shopping centres.

Authority spokesman Jo van Zanten said: "The public meeting is open to everyone and we hope the engagement will be as wide and varied as possible."

"This is an opportunity to speak directly with senior police officers and members of Essex Police Authority about any policing issues in the area. The public's concerns matter to us and contribute to future planning, so come along and have your say."

Road safety tests put drivers in the hotseat

MOTORISTS got the chance to put their driving abilities to the test when Harlow's firefighters held a Community Wheels Roadrunner road safety presentation in the town centre. They set up the purpose-built multimedia resource in Terminus Street, using a computer simulator to check the eyesight and reaction times of drivers.

It was mainly aimed at older drivers who regularly get behind the wheel.

"The day was a great success and we were able to get the road safety message out to a great many people," said RTC reduction officer David Hadjicostas.

"Days like this show the value of the multi-agency approach offered by the community wheels vehicle, getting experts from the fire service, police and council road safety officers to combine their knowledge and get the safety message out to the people who matter – the road users of Essex."

Good to learn

ADULT Learners' Week takes place later this month and free two-hour taster sessions are being held for Harlow residents.

The drop-in style sessions organised by Essex County Council's adult community learning department are designed to show people how to return to work or education. They take place on Wednesday at the Rivermill Centre in Hodings Road.

Courses available include first aid, beauty therapy, and introduction to manicure, meditation, digital imaging, word art, book-keeping, arts and crafts, and yoga.

Staff will also be on hand to offer advice on applying for jobs, updating CVs and improving basic English and mathematics skills. For more information call (01279) 427711.

Drink advice

WITH summer just around the corner and the late May bank holiday weekend fast approaching, Essex's Drug and Alcohol Action Team has issued a timely warning about drinking responsibly.

It comes as Government statistics show many people are confused about alcohol units and how much they are actually drinking.

The figures suggest that changes to glass sizes and the strength of wines could mean that the average adult's weekly alcohol intake has gone up by a third since 2005. As well as health implications, the county council is also warning people not to get behind the wheel after having a drink.

Senior councillor Tracey Chapman said: "With the bank holidays approaching and the weather improving, the barbecue invites will soon start to flow in.

"It is important that people realise just one glass of wine can take them over the drink-drive limit. The advice is simple – leave the car at home."

Cat call

CAT lovers are invited to Harlow and Epping Forest Cats Protection's fourth Catland event in Coopersale on Sunday.

As well as the chance to meet some of the animals in the charity's care, there will also be a photograph exhibition, live music, stalls, a plant sale and refreshments.

The event takes place from 11am-4pm. For details, call (01992) 579539.

Church social

FRIENDLY fellowship and the opportunity to snap up a few bargains are on offer at a Harlow church's new weekly social gathering.

The Redeemer Lutheran Church, in Bush Fair, will be holding its not just coffee mornings and jumble sales every Thursday from 10.30am-12.30pm.

For more details, call Paul Fry on (01279) 830539.

Hospice cash

ST CLARE Hospice is £3,000 better off as a result of a fundraising dance featuring the Joe Loss Orchestra.

The event, held at Broxbourne Civic Hall in Hoddesdon, was organised by Jean and Dave Roberts who during the past eight years have raised more than £20,000 for the Hastingwood hospice.

Hospital falls short in patients' survey

HOSPITAL chiefs say they have already taken action to improve services after a survey of patients placed Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital in the bottom 20 per cent of trusts in England.

A total of 446 patients returned last year's Healthcare Commission questionnaire.

The results published yesterday (Wednesday) revealed the PAH Trust came in the bottom fifth nationwide in 28 of the 72 areas surveyed.

As well as the overall mark for patient care, the other areas where PAH performed poorly included the length of time patients waited to be admitted to hospital after their initial visit to their GP, whether there were enough nurses and if they instilled confidence and were to be trusted by individual patients.

Hand-washing by both doctors and nurses before they handle patients was another area of concern, as was the opportunity given to patients to talk to staff about health worries and fears.

The trust finished in the top 20 per cent in only three of the healthcare areas surveyed. These were being given a choice of admission date and adequate segregation between sexes on wards and in bathroom facilities.

A PAH spokesman told the Star: "We appreciate this survey and, as it was held a year ago, we are already working on results and listening."

"Our patients' views and priorities are vital in us making real improvements."

Harlow MP Bill Rammell said: "My recent survey of 1,500 Harlow residents, many more than took part in this survey, showed overwhelmingly high levels of satisfaction with local services."

"Due to Government investment and reform, all hospitals have improved but this survey suggests that PAH has not improved as much as other hospitals."

"I will be pressing the hospital very strongly to do even better."

Express delivery in bathroom

YOUNG mum Katy Grigg had an unexpected delivery when she gave birth to a baby girl on the bathroom floor – while her 16-month-old son looked on.

Katy (23), of Waterhouse Moor, Harlow, was forced to deliver baby Zanna herself because ambulance crews were unable to get to her in time.

She was due to go into labour on Friday but was shocked when she realised her waters had broken two days early as she rested in the flat she shares with her partner Kelly Lee (34) and son Ryan.

Mr Lee was at work and unable to get home to take her to hospital while paramedics found themselves locked out of the flat because Miss Grigg was unable to buzz them in.

"I was so shocked when I realised I was going into labour," she told the Star. "I was a bit worried because it took me one-and-a-half days to give birth to my son but fortunately this time it was over quite quickly!"

"It was quite scary at one

point because I realised that the umbilical chord was wrapped around her neck. After I managed to untangle her she had gone a bit purple but the paramedics soon took her off to hospital and made sure she was fine.

"Ryan was with me at the time, bless him, and although he got a bit upset he was a fantastic little nurse!" Paramedic Sam Wheatley, who was first on the scene after the birth, gave baby Zanna oxygen before an ambulance crew took her to Princess Alexandra Hospital. "As mum had gone through the three stages of delivery there was little chance anything serious would happen with her but she was obviously checked over," he said.

"We then took them both to PAH so they could receive further care."

Confrontation lands three in court for affray

THREE people who attacked a man outside his home almost two years ago have appeared in court.

Anthony Griffiths (30), of Bushey Croft, Harlow, Andrew Ellis (22), of Parsonage Leys, Harlow, and a 17-year-old who cannot be named for legal reasons all pleaded guilty to affray.

Nicola May, prosecuting at Chelmsford Crown Court, said victim Darren Taylor (35), had been in a relationship with Ellis' 18-year-old sister. The Ellis family disapproved of the relationship because of the age gap and Mr Taylor encountered hostility from them as a result.

In June 2006 Mr Taylor was at his home in Harlow when he heard his car alarm. Looking out of his bedroom window he saw Ellis throwing stones at the vehicle.

Mr Taylor went downstairs and confronted Ellis and there followed a verbal confrontation. Griffiths, who was nearby, grabbed Mr Taylor around the waist and pulled him to the ground. He was then kicked about the head and body.

Neighbours who saw three men attacking Mr Taylor called the police.

David Pickersgill, representing Ellis, said in mitigation that Mr Taylor was armed with a knuckleduster and some of the kicking was to thwart his use of this weapon. However, he added that the defendants "went over the top and went too far".

Ian Boyes, representing Griffiths, said he had initially gone over as a peacekeeper but acknowledged his subsequent behaviour was unacceptable.

Ellis, who admitted damaging Mr Taylor's car, was placed on probation for a year, ordered to attend an alcohol treatment course and pay £250 compensation while Griffiths was ordered to complete 100 hours of community work and pay £750 prosecution costs. The 17-year-old was sent to youth court for sentencing.

Tories will soon be back in opposition

SIR, British political history since 1945 reveals that thanks to the perversity, or common sense, of the electorate, no government has retained control of the nation's town halls during its time in office. When Margaret Thatcher came to power in 1979 there were some 12,000 Conservative councillors; when she left office, the number was 4,000. In 1997, when Tony Blair became prime minister, he had 11,000 Labour councillors; at his resignation in 2007, it was some 5,000.

In line with the political pendulum's cyclical swing to the right since 2002, helped by some misjudgements by the present prime minister, the voters – that is the one-third interested enough to vote – have finally given the Conservatives a majority on Harlow Council.

As they take control, they should reflect that if David Cameron becomes prime minister after the next election, as they anticipate, historical precedent says that they will be back in opposition within the next five years.

Our house plight

SIR, Further to your report "Housing ordeal is making us sick" (Star, April 24), I would just like to add a few further facts

Thankfully, Bill Rammell and his case worker Michael Watson have given us their full support throughout our problem.

We have been on the housing list for at least eight years and have been bidding since last August with no results.

At an interview with a housing officer last year, we were told we would have to go into temporary accommodation if we were not successful in our bidding.

We are both in our 60s, unwell, living with our 38-year-old son and a pair of loving house cats plus a house full of furniture. How could we go into a halfway house?

It was suggested by Harlow Council that we could (to buy us some time) move into private accommodation whilst we bid for our permanent home. We have investigated this but it is not feasible, as house agents require leases of at least six months or more and would not release us from our contract if a house was allocated to us, leaving us to pay private and council rent, which is impossible.

Finally, I would like to say that although Essex County Council did not thank me for my long service, both infant and junior schools gave me a fine send off, especially the children. They have made my career of 24 years as caretaker a delight. Eventually, when we are rehoused, I hope to be as happy again.

Vigilante vandal

SIR, I own a 1974 classic American pick-up truck, which recently has been the target for vandals. The front windscreen has been smashed twice within a month and the front window of my caravan once.

Now, I don't think this was done by youngsters but rather I believe I am the target of a local 'vigilante' who, for reasons only known to him or herself, has taken it upon him or herself to try to enforce their own parking regulations through the medium of criminal damage. I believe that whoever is responsible for these actions just does not like the fact that I am quite legally parking my vehicle outside my house.

I would like to know if any of your readers have been the targets of similar attacks. If anything is to be done, we need to catch perpetrator so they may be brought to justice.

School case clear

SIR, I refer to letter "Head is respected for so much more" (Star, May 1) referring to Mr Topley's earlier letter "A weak case for relocating school".

It appears to me that the letter must have been written by a staff member who is seeking promotion! At no time did Mr Topley criticise the headteacher's capabilities as an excellent headteacher.

As the writer stated, in order to become a

Mosque plan shows council defaulting on a promise

SIR, I was pleased to organise the residents meetings at Milwards School (Star, May 8).

It was obvious that the council had defaulted on its original promise as far as the local residents are concerned. Instead of keeping Kingsmoor Recreation centre for recreation, the council is considering allowing a mosque on the site.

It was a disastrous result for councillors in the local election. It would be fatal for the new administration to overlook the importance of this issue.

We came to the meeting to remind the council now is the time to listen to the wishes of its residents. Now is the time to have a proper consultation process. Now is the time to honour its commitments to the overwhelming majority of the local residents.

Residents went home, back to Maples, back to Morningsons, back to Milwards, knowing that somehow this situation can and will be changed.

We call on the council to honour its original promise to preserve the recreation centre for the local residents, without the need to remove our shoes and socks.

We call on the council to reject plans for "corpse washing" within feet of a school playground.

We call on the council to reject plans which are out of character for the local area.

We call on the council to reject plans which will have a detrimental impact on highway safety

We call on the council to reject these plans.

And when this happens, when the council listens to common sense and the wishes of local residents, we will be able to work together to find a more suitable location for a mosque in Harlow.

John Downes
Morningsons, Harlow

SIR, I am writing to congratulate Christine Odell on speaking out for the rights of Muslims at the meeting on plans to extend the Harlow Islamic Community Centre at Kingsmoor Recreation Centre (Star, May 8).

I am a humanist and reject all religious dogmas, but I still defend the human rights of religious believers.

This incident reminds me of possibly the worst experience of my political life. The 1968 Caravan Sites Act placed an obligation on local authorities to provide sites for gipsies and Harlow Council, in conjunction with the Development Corporation, looked for a site to fulfil its obligation.

The choice fell on Fern Hill Lane and a consultation meeting took place. I was both the ward councillor and chair of the planning committee at the time, and the atmosphere in the meeting was the most hostile I had known, just as you describe the Kingsmoor one. I simply made the point that gipsies and travellers were people, human beings not monsters, and were entitled to be treated to be treated as such, not discriminated against.

As it happens, I came up for re-election the following May and I braced myself for a renewed onslaught. In fact, it was never mentioned and I was returned with a very comfortable majority.

On the substantive issue, parking and any other problems will be dealt with through the normal planning process. The nature of the group making the application should have no bearing on the decision.

super school there is no need to move from the Passmores site. It is in a safe area with much scope to make it indeed a very good school. His letter was written in that vein.

Mr Topley put his case very clearly. I found the writer's letter quite embarrassing to read.

OAP travel bonus

SIR, I have noticed over the past few weeks there has been some correspondence in the paper about the changes to OAP bus travel. Harlow Council does not allow OAPs to use their bus passes before 09.30am. Trustybus allows OAP pass-holders to travel on all their commercial routes for half fare before 09.30am. These routes are 22, 33, Staple Tye area and C3 Harlow to Brookfield Centre.

Although not free, it's a small gesture to assist the elderly to travel more freely.

Helen Bowden, managing director Trustybus

Paths a danger

SIR, I am writing to complain about the disgusting state of the footpath between First Avenue and Feasants Croft by the museum car park.

The tree roots have cracked and made the pavement uneven and dangerous while the foliage has overgrown, making this area look neglected and unsightly.

Many elderly residents, including my grandmother, frequently used this footpath to reach the bus stop and I hope, for their welfare, that it can be re-paved and fixed immediately.

Sooner or later, someone will fall or trip over one of the roots and seriously hurt themselves; I sincerely hope this doesn't happen, so please fix it!

Kerryanne Holleyman

Toilets still closed

SIR, It is now five months since the waiting room and adjacent toilets at Harlow bus station were closed on Sundays. Despite letters to all three major political parties, no reason for the closure has been given. It is obvious that Harlow Council has no responsibility to its ratepayers.

War honour for Bevin Boy Doug

By BEN WILKINSON
 Chief Reporter
wilkinsonb@hertsessexnews.co.uk

FOR one Harlow pensioner it was a case of better late than never when he finally received recognition for his war service.

Douglas McWilliam (81), a former caretaker at Tany's Dell School, is now the proud owner of a Bevin Boys' badge along with dozens of others who carried out essential wartime work down Britain's coalmines during the Second World War.

Mr McWilliam, of Altham Grove, was in the Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve and had hoped to become a wireless operator. But instead he was conscripted into the army of Bevin Boys, young men who were sent down the mines to produce coal.

He served for 10 months as a putter – a pony driver – before the environment caused him to contract severe conjunctivitis. At the same time he was diagnosed he learned his family home had been struck by a V2 rocket.

After being allowed to take a short break to care for his mother who was struck down with illness following the bombing, he was prevented from returning to the mines by his doctor so instead joined the Army Catering Corps.

The Bevin Boys were named after the minister of labour at the time, Ernest Bevin. Despite their vital work in keeping the country's infrastructure running during the war, their contribution went largely unrecognised for decades.

But now the Government has finally decided to award them special badges.

"We've been waiting for this for 60 years so it's not before time," said Mr

McWilliam. "The Bevin Boys had a very tough job to do but at the same time got a lot of grief because some people believed, wrongly, that they were avoiding going in the Army."

"I was one of the lucky ones, but I still picked up a few injuries down there. It was not a nice job at all."

Care home widow died after taking tablets meant for bathing leg ulcers

AN inquest jury has ruled that the death of a widow who swallowed tablets used to bathe ulcerated legs was an accident.

Dementia sufferer Joy Martin (77), who came from Old Harlow but was living in a care home in Bishop's Stortford, died two days after taking medication meant for another resident.

Last Wednesday the jury returned an accidental death verdict despite hearing that the medication, which is dissolved in water to make a cleansing solution, should have been stored in a locked cabinet.

Win Shepherd, quality assurance manager for care home owner Quantum, told the inquest it was standard practice to remove only the required dose and lock away the rest.

However, care worker John Kiwanuka admitted he had removed the entire bottle of tablets, which was missing its lid, along with other medical supplies to treat another resident's legs.

It is believed Mrs Martin took the tablets from a table next to Mr Kiwanuka while his back was turned. A post mortem examination revealed the cause of death was asphyxia due to inflammation of the upper airway as a result of ingesting potassium permanganate.

In a statement released after the hearing, Quantum's director of care and development David Parry said Mrs Martin's death was "a tragic accident which could not have been foreseen, or prevented. He also said steps had been taken to prevent such accidents happening again."

Get a buzz by signing up to

TIME is fast running out for those of you who have yet to sign up to next month's Midnight Walk in aid of St Clare Hospice.

The response so far has been fantastic and it's certainly going to be a night to remember. But we still want more people - individuals, families, groups of friends or work teams, to take part. The more the merrier.

The Midnight Walk - which is being supported by the Star, our sister paper the Bishop's Stortford Observer and Ten-17fm - will be the hospice's biggest single fundraising event of the year.

Director of nursing Rita Cutts said: "We are so pleased that St Clare is such a central part of a real community event. We have a team of nurses and staff from the hospice who will be walking alongside relatives, friends and colleagues of past and present patients."

"I am sure that everyone who walks on the night will have a tremendous time but they will also be contributing directly to our work. Many, many people in this community have experienced the support of St Clare and many will continue to do so. This walk will make a huge financial contribution to our work and allow us to continue to provide the highest level of care."

The walk, which takes place on Saturday, June 21, will follow a 10km route around Harlow's network of cycle paths. This is NOT a race or a run; you can go at your own pace.

Hundreds of willing walkers have already returned their completed registration forms and hundreds more have requested registration packs. Registration could not be simpler - you can request a pack by telephone or, even easier, register online. Just follow the instructions in the panel.

The cost of registration is £15 per walker but of course you can raise much more for the hospice by getting yourself sponsored. To take part you must be over the age of 16. Places are limited and will be allocated in the order entries are processed.

Marshals will be stationed along the route - which starts and finishes at The Water Gardens - to guide and assist participants when necessary. The Midnight Walk is accessible to wheelchair users.

Midnight Walk project manager Melanie Nightingale: "This is the biggest, most exciting event that St Clare has ever organised and the response from our community has been overwhelming."

"I am really looking forward to seeing everyone on the 21st so if you are still thinking about it, think no more... fill in that registration form and help us to paint the town pink"

Rammell: We need humility

THE Labour Party is facing an "immense struggle" following its disastrous local election results, Harlow MP Bill Rammell admitted this week.

In a candid and bluntly worded speech to trades union activists, Mr Rammell said there were "no ifs, no buts" about Labour's poor performance in the polls which saw the Conservatives take control of a number of councils including Harlow.

But addressing delegates at the TUC gathering in Newcastle on Saturday, he said that Prime Minister Gordon Brown was not to blame for the Government's problems and warned that Labour MPs must avoid falling into the trap of disunity.

Mr Rammell, whose 97-vote majority at the last general election makes Harlow one of Labour's top six marginal seats, praised Mr Brown for his admission that it had been a mistake to abolish the lowest 10p rate of income tax without compensating

wilkinsonb@hertsexessexnews.co.uk

those poorest elements of society affected.

"We have to avoid giving the impression that we believe we have a God-given right to govern," he said. "The reality is that whoever was leading us on whatever platform in the middle of our third term and in the middle of a global credit squeeze we would be struggling and well behind."

He added: "We have to be honest that winning a fourth term in Government, for a party which had never previously won two consecutive full terms, was always going to be an immense struggle."

"I say this not to assert that all is lost because it is not. But we need that honesty, that humility otherwise we risk appearing arrogant."

"Defeat for a third term Government is a serious prospect but we do have a chance. The Conservatives in 1992 showed you can win again."

BILL RAMMELL: "We need that honesty, that humility otherwise we risk appearing arrogant"

Manslaughter trial halted because of a courts shortage

TWO brothers accused of killing a pleasure boat captain have had their trial put on hold for six months because there are no spare courts at the Old Bailey to accommodate the case.

Christopher Liddard (22), of Challinor, Harlow, and Andrew Liddard (28), of Plomer Avenue, Hoddesdon, face manslaughter charges over the death of 67-year-old Michael Reed. The pair are also charged with affray and assault occasioning actual bodily harm.

Mr Reed, who was a senior crew member of the City Cruises boat The Millennium of Peace, died from a heart attack following an incident with boat passengers on June 2 last year.

Both brothers denied the manslaughter charge when they appeared in court last Wednesday. Prosecutor Ed Brown was due to open his case to the jury on Thursday but the judge was forced to adjourn the proceedings when it became clear it could not be completed by May 16 to fit in to the busy Old Bailey schedule.

With several hours already lost, the judge took the decision to halt the case before it had even started.

The earliest the trial can now start is October 27. Both defendants remain on conditional bail.

Nature's forces collide

TWO of Mother Nature's most powerful forces clashed spectacularly in the skies above Chile last week when a volcanic eruption coincided with a lightning storm.

Huge amounts of dust and ash from the eruption of the Chaitén volcano filled the night sky just as a lightening storm passed overhead, creating an amazing and very rare sight.

The eruption was even more unusual because the volcano in question, located about 800 miles (1,290km) south of Chilean capital Santiago, has been dormant for hundreds or even thousands of years.

Authorities in Chile were so worried by the violence of the eruption and ordered the evacuation of 4,000 people living nearby as hot molten lava began to spew out.

In the worst-affected areas volcanic ash up to 15cm thick coated houses, cars and trees and made water supplies unsafe to drink.

And it is not just people in Chile who have been affected by the volcanic eruption. Clouds of thick ash and gas crossed over into neighbouring Argentina where schools were closed and many people taken to hospital suffering from breathing problems.

Fairtrade in Harlow

A fairer world starts with you

Harlow is now officially a "Fairtrade" town. The status recognises towns which help developing countries by promoting Fairtrade products. Harlow Council and Harlow Fairtrade Town Group heard in December that their application had been successful.

Fairtrade is important because it changes lives. It seeks to guarantee a better deal for farmers and workers in the developing world who struggle to provide for their families.

Today there are over 3000 FAIRTRADE Marked products in the UK. Fresh fruit, coffee, cotton t-shirts, tea, sugar, fruit juice, honey, chocolate, flowers, sports balls, wines and beers are just some of the products available which carry the Mark.

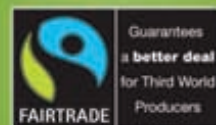

Locally Fairtrade products can now be found in many Harlow shops and supermarkets and are also served in some local cafes, including the new Café Youth in Westgate.

Harlow Council stocks both Fairtrade tea and coffee in its vending machines and all events held in Council facilities provide a choice of refreshments carrying the FAIRTRADE Mark. Other local businesses including some hairdressers also offer Fairtrade refreshments to their customers and staff. Harlow College as well as many local schools also promote and supply Fairtrade products.

Look out for the Harlow Fairtrade Town sticker displayed in the windows of local businesses who stock Fairtrade products.

The Harlow Fairtrade Town steering group made up of volunteers, supported by Harlow Council, will ensure continued commitment to Fairtrade Town status by promoting Fairtrade in the town and extending the work which has already taken place.

Pay-as-you-go at Epping gym

AN innovative new gym in Epping has pledged to help slim waists and fatten wallets as summer approaches and the beach beckons.

The family-run ConceptFitness Studio, in High Street, is a cutting-edge facility aiming to combine state-of-the-art exercise equipment with good solid customer service and all at an affordable price.

The gym prides itself on its holistic approach to health and fitness, offering users everything from exercise therapy and nutritional advice to massage and kickboxing pad-work.

There are no joining fees and users are not tied to membership contracts; instead, clients can take advantage of the firm's pay-as-you-go scheme to use the gym as little or as often as they please.

M&S moves into Co-op's location

A LEADING supermarket chain has announced it is to lease its Epping branch to a rival firm as it undergoes a major shake-up.

The Co-Operative Group will close its store in High Street next Thursday, with Marks & Spencer set to move into the vacant premises soon after, retaining all 25 members of staff currently employed.

The firm claimed the closure is in line with its retail strategy to concentrate on developing in the smaller supermarket and convenience store sectors where it is strongest.

Checks could hit work experience

By CHRIS MOSS
moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

SCHOOL pupils could soon find it more difficult to secure work experience placements following the introduction of compulsory new checks on employers.

The Federation of Small Businesses has warned such opportunities will drastically reduce under the weight of expensive new red tape.

It believes the Government's new Independent Safeguarding Authority – under which Criminal Records checks must be carried out at a cost of £64 per person on anybody supervising children – is prohibitively expensive and potentially counter-productive.

FSB regional organiser Terry Taber said: "The Government is pumping money into entrepreneurship schemes and the skills agenda and is constantly talking about getting employers involved in schools. This new scheme totally contradicts those efforts."

"Our fear is that fewer and fewer employers will be willing to offer work experience placements once this scheme is introduced."

But Harlow MP Bill Rammell disagreed, dismissing the FSB's claims and arguing that the Government was acting in the best interests of the children.

"We as a Government are committed to offering work experience opportunities to young people," he said. "This year we introduced 14-19 Diplomas which combine theoretical study with practical work experience, and the number of people completing apprenticeships has more than doubled in the last 10 years."

"However, it is vital that we continue to strengthen arrangements for the vetting and barring of individuals employed with children and vulnerable adults."

Hotel revamp beds down

A HARLOW hotel will soon be providing guests with an upgraded service as a multi-million pound refurbishment project nears completion.

All 119 rooms at the Park Inn Hotel, in Southern Way, have been given a major facelift and now the bar, restaurant, reception and conference suite are next in line for a makeover.

Each room now has a flat-screen LCD TV, full air-conditioning, new fixtures and fittings and re-fitted contemporary bathrooms, while laptop-size safes and comfortable workstations have been installed for business travellers.

Golden tickets at the ready!

A LUCKY shopper has a one-in-five chance of driving away a new car after finding a golden ticket in the Harvey Centre's Park & Win promotion.

Denise Grainge (48), of Bishop's Stortford, was given the coveted ticket by one of the machines located at the entrance to the shopping centre's car park in Playhouse Square.

"I was shocked and delighted when I realised," she said. "If I win the car, I'll give it to my children – they've both staked a claim as to whose it should be already!"

Mrs Grainge is the second lucky recipient of a golden ticket; Harlow resident Jennifer Malone is also looking forward to the final tomorrow (Friday) at which the winner of the prize draw will be handed the keys to the Chevrolet Matiz, courtesy of Motorsales Harlow.

Deadline looms for HSBC award

ENTREPRENEURS seeking a tax-free investment opportunity have until tomorrow (Friday) to register for this year's HSBC Start-Up Stars awards.

The nationwide competition is back with an even bigger prize of £50,000 for the winner.

Other prizes include £5,000 for the most eco-friendly entrant, and runners-up can scoop thousands of pounds worth of Google AdWords.

For details and to enter, visit www.startupstars.hsbc.co.uk or call at any branch of HSBC.

Tee time for the new town's golf players

AS Harlow comes of age, it seems milestone anniversary celebrations are taking place all over the town of late. The latest one to record is Canons Brook Golf Club, which in 2008 has entered its 50th year.

The club - originally known as Harlow Golf Club - was formed in 1958, with its first meeting held in the Essex Skipper pub, in The Stow, and members paying an annual fee of £1.

But it was not until some five years later that the first nine holes of the course off Edinburgh Way finally opened - 45 years ago this week, on May 18, 1963.

Cyril Beaton has been involved from the start and said: "In 1957, I noticed on the official plan of Harlow that an area was designated to be a golf course. I asked Mr Derek Moule, who was at that time secretary of the Harlow Golfing Society, to contact the Harlow Development Corporation to ascertain when we could expect to have a course to play on.

"A meeting was then arranged for us to meet the chairman of the corporation, Ben Hyde Harvey, and the following year we formed the Harlow Golf Club."

Harlow's new club didn't do things by halves - seeking someone to design the course, they secured the services of none other than Sir Henry Cotton, probably the most famous golfer in the world at the time.

"Henry Cotton agreed to lay out the course and work commenced in 1960," said Mr Beaton. "A steering committee was later elected, with Ben Hyde Harvey the president, Sir Richard Costain the captain, and I the vice captain."

In May 1963 came the big day and, to mark the occasion, a special exhibition match was held with Sir Henry and Sir Richard versus Mr Beaton and Ian Large, the club's first professional.

"The second and third fairways, as we now play, were not then part of the course. Three years later, on May 22, 1966, we had the official opening of the full 18 holes with another exhibition, this time featuring Henry Cotton and Peter Townsend versus Lionel Platts and Michael Bonnallack," added Mr Beaton.

Meetings which united populace

DEREK Hawes, a former senior officer at Harlow Council and (we think) the longest serving, has been in touch to reflect on the great public meetings which were a feature of the town's early years.

As head of information, head of community services and then director of housing, Dr Hawes was responsible for organising many of these gatherings between 1964-90.

He recalled: "Big issues, controversies and difficult events were often - rather in the manner of the democracy of ancient Athens - negotiated in large meetings in the square, the council chamber or other places. The people spoke freely and it was a great way of achieving unity and backing for social progress."

Among those remembered by Dr Hawes are the 'Teach-In' on new towns of 1966 when architects, planners, politicians, journalists and academics came from all parts of the country to spend a weekend debating the future of the novel communities.

Another he recalls, from the same year, was the enormous turnout to support the fund for the Aberfan land slip disaster in Wales.

"Others were prompted by the 1970 hunger march, when marchers slept in the Town Hall on their way to Westminster, and the Town Hall was packed to the rafters for a public meeting which resulted in the formation of Women's Aid and the support of victims of domestic violence," he continued. "Another resulted in the creation of the Child Poverty Action Group in Harlow."

"Several large gatherings gave terrific backing for a theatre in the town, and when The Playhouse was eventually achieved it was itself the venue for others. One was to help people cope with the introduction of decimal currency and another to assist householder in coping with the disruption caused by the changeover to North Sea gas."

One of the rowdiest meetings Dr Hawes attended was held at the Town Hall when angry residents opposed the council's plans to build a second traveller site. But when the construction of Stansted Airport was first mooted, it was Harlow Council itself which organised opposition from throughout the county.

"These occasions were always vibrant, exciting events when everyone could have their say," he said. "It was a tradition that went a long way to creating a real community within the town," he said.

"Perhaps it is time the idea was revived and politicians and bureaucrats once more stood on public platforms to explain and argue for their decisions!"

A pretty novel way to make firm stand out

RECOLLECTIONS of Alice Flight's upmarket dress shop in West Gate jogged the memory of Dorrie Pond, who sent us an interesting newsletter. Ponderings, as it was cleverly called, was the company mouthpiece of her late husband's garage business Alan Pond Ltd. But it is the cover photo of this particular May 1967 edition that is of topical interest.

Mr Pond, an early pioneer of self-service petrol stations, is the man in the centre and he is surrounded, so the caption says, by some of his prettiest staff. The girls, all cashiers at Pond garages, are pictured showing off their new tailor-made uniforms designed and made by Mrs Flight.

Mrs Pond, of Grange Lane,

Roydon, said: "The outfits were lovely: the girls had a choice of two types of skirt and nice blouses. It became quite well known locally how well turned-out the Alan Pond girls were. If only today's businesses were as concerned about the appearance of their staff!"

Significant exhibition of Gerda's sculptures

A MASTERCLASS in bronze sculpture will be available for viewing at Harlow's Parndon Mill Gallery from today (Thursday).

Sculptor Gerda Rubinstein's exhibition By Hand And Eye: Bronze And Bronze Resin Sculpture can be seen at the gallery, off Elizabeth Way, and the close connections with Harlow itself can be enjoyed.

The late Patricia, Lady Gibberd, wife of Harlow new town masterplanner Sir Frederick, first saw the work of the Berlin-born artist in 1968 and purchased some sculptures for her burgeoning collection. She later commissioned the artist to produce the well-known bust of Sir Frederick which can still be seen in the Gibberd Garden.

Gallery owner Sally Anderson said: "These works contain all the vitality and charm for which Gerda has become known and this is a very significant exhibition in terms of its connection with Harlow and how admired and inspirational her works have been for many in the town."

The free exhibition runs until June 29.

Dance school show is going back to basics

By JIM TANFIELD

A HARLOW dance school has tapped into its large pool of talent to make its annual extravaganza the best yet.

In recent years, Makin' Steps has used large out-of-town stages for its show but this year's, entitled Back 2 Basics, will be held at Harlow's Latton Bush Centre.

Director and principal tutor Scott Simpson said: "As the name suggests, Back 2 Basics is a return to our roots and is a pure dance show which will give about 130 performers from the school's total of 500 students the chance to show off all the disciplines they have learnt.

"It will include elements of hip-hop, street, jazz, ballet, modern and tap."

The school will use a purpose-built stage at the centre, in Southern Way, and cater to a capacity audience of 200 over four nights.

"There will, of course, be the dazzling array of costumes and lighting, which all combines with the quality of the dancing that helps to give the show the professional standard for which Makin' Steps has become renowned," added Scott. "We are now putting the finishing touches to the show, which we started rehearsing way back in January."

The dance school has also been given a boost with the news that world-famous choreographers Nick Bass and Kenny Wormald will be giving a session each at the centre on June 3.

The choreographers, who have worked with such stars as Justin Timberlake, will each take a 90-minute class.

"This is open to everyone as I don't just want to give priority booking to the school's students," said Scott. "These are really big names in the dance world and a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity."

To book the two sessions at 7pm, which cost £30, and for tickets to the Back 2 Basics annual show, costing £15 (£12 under 16s) and running from May 28 until May 31, call (01279) 304937.

Mike finds out that life can be sweet after all

SMILIE FACE: Sally Hawkins stars in HAPPY-GO-LUCKY (S)

ALTHOUGH veteran director and playwright Mike Leigh is not exactly renowned for his sunny disposition, his latest film seems to suggest he might just be softening in his older age.

Perhaps best-known for his acerbic black comedy Abigail's Party – a compelling period drama that brilliantly deconstructs the petty class wars of late '70s Britain – Leigh doesn't really do soppy rom-coms for hormonal teens, nor is his work generally shot through with feelgood sunshine.

But with this tale of one woman's simple quest to bring a little more joy to an increasingly bleak world, he tears up his own rulebook and certificate 15, running time 1h 58m

manages to create something hopeful, moving and laugh-out-loud funny that might even restore your faltering faith in humanity.

The main reason for this is the central character of Poppy (Mike Leigh regular Sally Hawkins), a relentlessly chirpy 30-something primary school teacher in central London.

She's happy to be single, loves her job and lives with her best friend Zoe (Alexis Zegerman) in a rented flat. Her friends all love her, her family loves her and the kids at her school all adore her.

By this point in the film, the cynics among us will undoubtedly be searching for the inevitable irony buried away somewhere in this candyfloss script but, refreshingly, there isn't even a hint of one.

That's not to say nothing bad ever happens to Poppy – she has family problems like most, her driving instructor is a racist bigot who begins to become obsessed with her and she has to sort out the school bully a couple of times – but it's her indomitable spirit and sense of humour that always sees her through.

And while those Leigh fanatics gripping their seats in anticipation of that unbearable moment her dark secret is revealed won't get what they expect, they'll nevertheless leave the cinema bathed in a warm, fuzzy glow after being surprised by something equally as life-affirming, just a little more wholesome.

No need to put your brains in gear for Speed

certificate PG, running time 2h 15m

FOR those cineastes who like plot and a little depth of character with their popcorn, this futuristic, high octane rallying drama will be a bit of a non-starter.

Although it boasts some of the most impressive CG visuals yet seen on the big screen, the film lacks any kind of cerebral punch and sticks to the tiresome formula of an already over-egged genre.

Charisma-free lead Emile Hirsch, pictured above, is Speed Racer, an impressionable young racing driver with a rather natty motor his dad built for him – The Mach 5. But when Speed's older brother Rex is killed while taking part in the testing cross-country rally The Crucible, the precocious young talent decides to enter the same race determined to win it as a tribute to the sibling he idolised.

All is well until the sinister chairman of a shady motoring corporation, Royalton, gets wind of Speed's intentions and attempts to sign him up for his race team, but Speed stumbles across evidence implicating the mega-firm in an illegal race-fixing ring and decides against the move.

Enraged, Royalton pulls out all the stops to prevent Speed from entering the rally, but with support from his family, wife and a newfound racing partner in the shape of his former mysterious adversary Racer X, he is soon ready to face the greatest challenge of his fledgling career.

It's been nine long years since The Matrix and the once-feted directing duo of The Wachowski Brothers seem destined to churn out one over-produced disappointment after another; the tedious and farcical sequels Matrix Rebooted and Matrix Revolutions were useful only in so much as they made the hit-and-miss V For Vendetta look better than it really was.

The dismal impact Speed Racer's made at the US box office might begin to persuade those bankrolling such hi-concept, low-brainer tosh that these little emperors are wandering about in the buff and that maybe the money would be better spent elsewhere.

sound check with Chris Moss

THESE anthemic post-punk noiseniks may only have one demo to their name but there's enough potential packed into the three-and-a-half minute indie whirlwind that is Mediastorm to suggest big things are on the horizon for the fledgling four-piece.

It can often be all too easy to dismiss a bunch of impressionable 16-year-olds as flash-in-the-pan chancers desperate to jump on the next bandwagon to roll through town. But accuse The Taunts of musical naivety at your peril – MTV-friendly emo-by-numbers drudgery this certainly isn't.

Boldly ploughing their own furrow in an increasingly murky music world of soulless A&R men hunting for the next identikit quick-hit Neanderthals, their epic sound is difficult to pin down – snaking, disparate melodies, rumbling guitars and daydreaming vocals combine

Animal Alpha (album, Racing Junior)

Taking on Fall Out Boy for the Look How Crazy Cool We Are, We've Got A Really Long Album Title crown, at least Norwegian heavy rockers Animal Alpha aren't sensitive emo types to boot. Fronted by clearly insane vocalist Agnete Kjølsrud – who looks like Annie Lennox would if she'd been raised by wolves – this is brilliantly twisted sleaze rock for all those who want a raw alternative to the tired and showy doom rock glamour of Marilyn Manson et al.

Iron Maiden (album, EMI)

Bruce and the boys have been flying the flag for British rock for the best part of three decades and this latest greatest hits compilation, cherry-picking tracks from the first seven studio albums and the Live After Death set is out to coincide with their current world tour.

With more power chords than the local branch of Currys, these 17 tracks illustrate why Maiden have cornered the market in heavy metal. Classic album favourites such as Hallowed Be Thy Name, Phantom Of The Opera and Powerslave sit comfortably alongside

The loneliness of the urban skater

PARANOID PARK
(Tartan Video, 15, retail)

Indie film-maker Gus Van Sant continues his series of highly personal meditations on the disaffection of American youth with this evocative, dreamlike tale set around Portland's skateboarding community.

Alex (Gabe Nevins, pictured right) is a likeable, quiet skateboarder feeling the unwelcome pressures of impending adulthood but struggling inside to deal with something altogether more sinister and distressing.

Drawn with a friend to Paranoid Park, a notorious skating arena built illegally on an abandoned industrial site by the more renegade end of the skating fraternity, Alex is desperate to ride but too timorous to do more than look on from the sidelines.

The discovery nearby of the body of a railway security guard and of a discarded skateboard which may have played a part in his death brings the police to Alex's school and throws the spotlight on those hanging around Paranoid Park.

The 16-year-old reacts to the investigation with the same vague disinterest with which he faces his parents' ongoing divorce and the pressures from his virgin girlfriend to 'get more serious'.

But as Van Sant's non-linear narrative unfolds via Alex's secret confessional letter, the extent of his involvement in the guard's death and its moral repercussions become clearer.

In many respects, this is a gently dislocated rite of passage story, but one in which the central character's main desire seems to be to return to an earlier childhood where everything was much simpler and there was no pressure to shoulder to burdens of adulthood and the loss of innocence they represent.

Van Sant used very few professional actors for this film, recruiting most of his cast via Portland area MySpace users. You'd never know it, to judge from the assured and convincingly natural performances, Nevins in particular.

The film's stoned, remote tone is aided no end by the predominantly blue and grey palette employed by cinematographer Chris Doyle, and by the decision to shoot most of the skateboarding sequences in grainy Super 8 and set them to ambient electronica.

Extras include footage of a London preview screening and a brief but informative making-of.

MALA NOCHE
(Tartan Video, 15, retail)

Tartan's second Gus Van Sant release this week goes from his latest film all the way back to his first in 1985, a micro-budgeted story of a bruised and exploited unrequited love.

Shot in a grainy monochrome and built around a series of moments rather than a progressive narrative, it follows liquor store clerk and aspiring writer Walt (Tim Streeter) who meets and falls hard for handsome Mexican illegal immigrant Johnny (Doug Coeyate).

Walt's desperate to demonstrate the depth of his feelings for the object of his desire, but he's hindered by the latter's lack of English and the fact that he finds Walt a little freakish and undesirable.

Not surprisingly, their relationship develops along damaging lines as Walt attempts to get into Johnny's affections by funding him and his friends.

Van Sant explores something of the nature of homosexual attraction with a refreshing lack of sentimentality and performances that come across feeling very real.

Extras include a scene analysis, an introduction and a Van Sant interview.

EYES WITHOUT A FACE
(Second Sight, 15, retail)

It's ample testimony to the power of Georges Franju's haunting 1960 chiller that it still shocks almost half a century on.

In combining the mad surgeon motif so popular in the grand guignol tradition with flourishes of German expressionism and the rich atmosphere of a fractured fairytale comparable to Cocteau's La Belle Et La Bête, he forged an eerie classic which often feels more like an elegant poem to horror films than one itself.

Arrogant yet brilliant plastic surgeon Dr Gennesier (Pierre Brasseur) is acclaimed by all as his work on revolutionary skin-grafting techniques progresses rapidly, but it's still not fast enough for him as he guiltily fights against the ticking clock of his daughter Christiane's despair and impending madness to find her a replacement face for the one she lost in a car accident he caused.

He's already faked her death, using the body of the latest unwilling donor to lead the authorities to assume his disfigured child had wandered off from his clinic on the outskirts of Paris.

But after he and his devoted assistant Louisa (Alida Valli, who'd later make such an impression in Suspira) go through the formality of a fake funeral, they're back to abducting young women to use as the raw material for yet another attempted transplant.

For its time, some of the sequences of surgery are pretty strong stuff, but Franju's not interested in horrifying his audience so much as drawing them in and unsettling them. A sequence in which Gennesier and Louisa conceal yet another body in Christiane's supposed tomb is taken far beyond the usual gothic trappings of such a scene and given a strange frisson when Louisa looks up to the night sky to see an aircraft passing overhead, an almost intrusive reminder of modernity and of the enormity of their crimes when viewed outside of the usual fog-shrouded cinematic context.

But nowhere is the film's weird and romantic melancholy so perfectly expressed as in Edith Scob's Christiane. The mute appeal of her eyes burns through the bland mask she wears for appearance's sake and she moves about the huge house adjoining the clinic with a remote grace suggesting the loss of her face is steadily taking with it much of her humanity.

Eyes Without A Face is a film that deservedly stays with you long after the end titles have faded, not least for the moody photography by Eugen Shufftan and a subtle score by Maurice Jarre.

This welcome re-release includes a brief feature in which Franju discusses his editing techniques and what he hoped to achieve by them.

tracks that gave the band success in the singles charts during the '80s, including Run To The Hills, Can I Play With Madness? and The Evil That Men Do.

There's nothing new here, so this is strictly for Maiden completists. But at least you get to download the whole album and listen to it three times for free before deciding whether it's worth forking out for.

DIGITAL VERSATILE DOOM - LIVE AT THE ORPHEUM THEATRE
HIM (album/DVD, Sire)

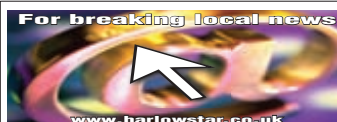

'Love rock'. Pah, has there ever been a more ghastly name for a musical genre? Instead of the all-macho Led Zep-style pentagram, this Finnish bunch use a 'heartagram' as a logo - pass the bucket. You may also be familiar with their best-known song on these shores (Rip Out) The Wings Of A Butterfly; ergh, hold me back! There are guitars, sure, but the combination with the utterly dire lyrics leads for a miserable listen. The DVD is also lame, with Killing Loneliness a saving grace from eternal crumbliness.

EVERYTHING'S THE RUSH
Delays (album, Polydor)

The indie-lite rockers are hoping to hit the big time with their comeback tracks but they may have over-egged the pudding with complicated production which assaults the ears and lyrics which lack substance and meaning. Combine the two and you've an album oozing immaturity and with no real sense of purpose.

THE BEST OF THE VINES
The Vines (album, EMI)

A bit of a strange one, this, considering Australia's biggest export since they flogged us their rubbish lager have only released three albums since 2002. This is nevertheless a timely reminder of why we fell in love with Craig Nicholls and co after the release of snarling headbanger and indie disco fave Get Free. Comprising the best tracks from each album, the compilation charts the band's chaotic journey from the identity crisis of their first incarnation through to the calmer waters of 2006's polished comeback Vision Valley.

Your stars with Patrick Arundell
 ...through the week ahead

Aries Mar 21-Apr 20
 Mars can do wonders for your love life and a purple patch unfolds between you and the Summer. Feeling less burdened by emotional concerns can also free up more energy, do use this to get yourself in better trim. An offer you thought had gone off the radar can come back into play. However, this may need you to revise a plan you'd already decided on. Call now for more.

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23
 You and a friend may clash as this week begins. This may surprise them, but the issue that's been rumbling in the background may need to come out. If this is a tie with genuine gravitas, this single event is unlikely to see it spin out of your work. However, your pal may need to recognise the strength of your feelings. If they do, this'll soon blow over. Call now for more news and advice.

Taurus Apr 21-May 21
 Physical changes to your home can occur between now and the Autumn. If you love tackling big projects yourself, you may want to take on this challenge. If not, you can start to engage craftsmen to help. Don't be fearful of trying some modern approaches. Socially too, this can be a time when more unusual pursuits can whet your appetite. Call now for your in-depth forecast.

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22
 If you've been secretly yearning for greater recognition, the chances are that between now and mid-August it can come. However, if in the scramble for advancement you step on people's toes your achievement could seem hollow. By all means go for the summit, but don't let ambition, status and winning become more important than human relations. Call your special prediction line for more.

Gemini May 22-Jun 21
 People know you've a way with words, and you're no slouch with ideas. And if you want greater mental stimulation, you'll get enormous support from Mars. With confidential conversations creating surprising revelations, the power of expression can work its magic at many levels. Couch potato? An excellent time to flex your paws. Call for more news and advice.

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21
 Someone can generate a brilliant idea at home and if you have the casting vote, not it through. If you enjoy recycling old furniture, you can also snaffle yourself a superb piece, either at a local bric-a-brac market, antiques centre or out of the bin. Links with people in other countries explode between now and August. Call me now for your in-depth forecast.

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23
 Getting a good deal can become something of an obsession and you won't take kindly to anyone trying to do you down or short-change you. The same can be true at work, where feeling valued, appreciated and properly paid, are set to be burning issues. Yet don't let your innate conservatism stop you from being open-minded. It'll help you thrive. Cancer. Call for your in-depth forecast.

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20
 Put your natural caution to one side, especially when it comes to new interests. Even long-standing hobbies can seem tame. Your senses need enlivening but if flying a glider, parasailing or surfboarding all seem a bit too much, how about researching your family tree, or reading up on the paranormal? Getting under the surface of things can intrigue. Call now for more news and advice.

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23
 This is a very important week for you as Mars accelerates into your sign, an occupation that will last through to August. Strange mood shifts will soon be a thing of the past, as will your concerns about someone from your past. This is the time to be bolder and more self-confident. At work, a new role can be thrust your way from out of the blue. Call me now for your financial forecast.

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19
 A relationship with a background advisor can grow deeper. This can have a spiritual or emotional dimension. Modern belief systems could seem very appealing. At work, you can feel more outgoing. If you need to fix appointments, the Sun's relatively subdued location will be less important. Mars, which is now super-competitive, will give you all the firepower you need. Call me now for more.

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23
 You sense creative opportunities will fall for you but you can't just expect these to drop into your lap, so effort is going to be important. A person you haven't seen for a long time can come back into your world and you can surprise yourself by initiating this. Even more surprising, is that as long as you let bygones be just that, you can get along much better. Call me now for your love scope.

Pisces Feb 20-Mar 20
 Your mind can be razor sharp - great for entering into witty repartees. If you have a liking for quirky or irreverent comedy shows, these can also provide an entertaining focal point. At work, Jupiter's reversal suggests a long-term hope must not be taken for granted. Fortunately, if you need to really work hard and concentrate, Mars provides the perfect filip. Call me now for your love scope.

New kid on the block

GETTING rid of the SL 55 AMG is a bit like killing off a main character in a TV soap series. Loved or hated, if they're important enough to be bumped off then somebody somewhere will be missing them.

The Mercedes-Benz SL 55 AMG's replacement – the 6.2-litre – is more powerful than its predecessor, but it is as equally as refined. However, like hardcore fans of their favourite soap, the raw, edgy character of the 55 is bound to be missed.

But probably not by very many and probably not for very long.

The SL 55 AMG was tail-twitch happy with a brutish character whereas the SL 63 AMG is infinitely more responsive, precise and calm and will easily convince any die-hard thrill-seekers to switch allegiance.

The same applies to its styling. The entire SL range has been revised and the SL's sharper, more focused looks now match its handling abilities.

The wimpy twin-styled headlamps have been replaced with bolder headlights, the grille, now wider and more prominent, features a single louvre, while the power domes on the aluminium bonnet give it a dynamic touch.

By SUZIE BOSTELL

However, the real star of the SL show is the AMG flagship model. Now fitted with the most powerful engine in its class, with 525bhp and 630Nm of torque on tap, the new unit propels the SL 63 AMG from standstill to 62mph in just 4.6 seconds.

Let it run and it will continue its linear delivery until it reaches the electronically limited top speed of 155mph, although there's the option of increasing this to 186mph.

A new 7-speed multi-clutch sports transmission has also been fitted. It comes with four modes that are selected via a rotary switch located next to the selector lever.

In Comfort, Sport and Sport+ modes, the SL does the shifting for you. Comfort gives smooth shifts and a gentle power transfer, while S and S+ modes increase the interaction between the engine and transmission, upshifts take place at higher engine speeds and downshifts are more spontaneous. S mode gives 20 per cent faster shifts, S+ mode an additional 20 per cent reduction, while manual is fierce and intense, giving full control to the driver and a lightning-fast shift time of 100 milliseconds.

Naturally, such an accomplished car carries an inordinate amount of technology onboard and with this comes a number of options for the driver. In addition to selecting transmission modes, the driver can select their preferred ESP setting. It can be left on or changed to ESP Sport, which is like riding a bike with stabilisers – you're predominantly on your own, but the system will step in to save you at the last minute.

It can also be switched off, but this is best left for track days and is not for the faint-hearted. Nor is the Race Start function, a launch control system inspired from Formula One racing, designed to make the driver feel like a racing driver.

Under the expertise of AMG, the sports suspension has been tuned and is based on Active Body Control. The driver can choose between Sport or Comfort suspension settings, but the system successfully manages to negate pitch and roll in both modes. Coupled with speed-sensitive power steering, it combines to deliver a beautifully balanced and rewarding drive, covering a variety of road surfaces with finesse.

Whether in sprint or cruising guise, the core abilities of the 63 remains the same, with a well planted ride, staggering levels of front end grip, the ability to turn into corners with aplomb and the ease with which it masks its almost two-ton weight by delivering a spritely and agile ride.

A press of a button converts the coupe into a roadster. Watching the hardtop fold away is art in motion, and it takes a mere 16 seconds for the transformation to take place. Complementing the appeal of fresh air motoring is the ability to give the naturally aspirated V8 engine a proper reception. Keeping the roof down and turning up the optional Aircarft neck heaters, occupants are treated to the wondrous sounds of the throaty engine, the exhaust notes burbling in symphony from the quad tailpipes.

It's simply not possible to tire of the sound or the captivating throttle blips, but should the driver wish to cruise in comfort, selecting the C-mode will transform the fast and furious roadster into a smooth and relaxed cruiser. As an AMG, it gets a few extra touches to distinguish it from the rest of the SL range in the unlikely event that the sonorous sounds of the engine fail to get the message across.

There's AMG side skirts, rear apron and boot lip spoiler with AMG trim panels on the front wings and plenty of branding, such as the 6.3 AMG badging on the side air intakes.

Inside the carbon fibre-trimmed cabin are new features such as the seats, telematics system, a three-spoke ergonomic sports steering wheel and detailing enhancements to the instrument cluster.

Priced at £102,075, it's a lot of money, but you do get a lot of car. As the range topper it's highly specced, but given the different suspension and transmission set-ups on offer, it's as if you buy one car but get another three for your money.

Hard slogging to win on penalties

Brookside Ath 3, Maiden 3 aet

Brookside Ath won 4-3 on pens (Harlow & District League, Division Three Cup final)

A MALE streaker at half-time showed bare faced cheek but for the players it was 120 minutes of hard work as penalties were needed to decide the Harlow and District Football League division three cup final.

Sunday's game at Barrows Farm was played in sweltering heat and the first spot kicks for both teams in the shoot-out were saved.

Matt Aiton, Mitch Barron and Simon Williams then all scored for Brookside while Chris Bonich, Michael Moore and Michael Cowley obliged for Maiden.

Then George Harris (Maiden) put his penalty just wide before Anthony James slotted the winning penalty to give Brookside the cup.

Maiden went ahead on 15 minutes when Chris Bonich fired home from a well-worked corner.

Brookside scored on 70 and 75 minutes to go 2-1 up.

James finished well, before Adam Williams curled in a brilliant 20-yard free-kick.

Brookside then took the game into extra time after Mark Cowley knocked home the equaliser in the seventh minute of injury time.

Extra time saw Maiden's Mark Cowley shoot home on 95 minutes before James fired in from an acute angle to make it 3-3.

Maiden were awarded a penalty on 115 minutes for handball but Brookside keeper Luke

A strong start ends in draw

Old Parkonians 242-6d, Epping 223-8

Match drawn

(Shepherd Neame Essex League div three)

EPHING were unable to build on their good start and were forced to settle for a draw in their opening league game at Lower Bury Lane.

Old Parkonians batted first on Saturday and lost three early wickets before they were rescued by fine knocks from Dan Rootes who made 71 and skipper Bob Curtis (51) on a good pitch.

Alex Graburn chipped in with 44 not out on a good track as they reached 242-6 before declaring and Dean Majeed (1-36) was the pick of the Epping bowlers.

In reply, Jason Whiting played well to make 95 and Dean Majeed completed a solid all-round display with a sound 51 but Epping faced six less overs than the visitors and finished 20 short of the target.

It's sheer torture in the final for Street

Sheering res 6, Potter Street A 2

(Footprint Bishop's Stortford, Stansted & District League, Inter-Divisional Plate final)

DANIEL Carr and Dave Hardy both bagged braces as Sheering capped a successful season by winning their second Bishop's Stortford, Stansted & District League cup in less than a month.

Sheering had already won the Division One Cup, beating Hatfield Heath reserves.

And they completed a magnificent double by beating Potter Street A on Saturday at Bishop's Stortford FC.

Sheering went ahead after 10 minutes when Carr finished from just inside the box.

Shortly after, Kevin Turner doubled Sheering's advantage when he converted Hardy's cross from the left.

Hardy fired home Sheering's third on 33 minutes before Street's Tom Mercer reduced the deficit with a strike shortly before the break.

Hardy made it 4-1 on the hour mark as he tucked home from a rebound.

Arron Clark stretched Sheering's lead on 71 minutes.

Kirk Elliott rifled in Street's second goal three minutes later.

The scoring was rounded off just before the end when Carr chased a through ball and won it well before lobbing in from an acute angle.

Street manager Neil Hewitt said: "Fair play to them. They played well and deserved to win. I thought we did well in the second half." POTTER STREET A: Ponter, Freeman (King), Jackson (Hewitt), Devine, Elliot, Fearon, Hawkins, Ivory, Mercer, Monger (Evans), Wickham.

Old Street, who beat Alemite in last week's cup final, suffered a surprise 1-0 loss at relegation-threatened Debden reserves.

North Weald Reserves clinched the division one championship when they won 3-0 at Potter Street A on Tuesday.

On Saturday, Thorley Park crushed Albury 4-0.

Langley Rangers are fourth after a 3-2 victory at Hatfield Heath reserves. James Cutler (2) and Jimmy Nash struck for the visitors.

The hosts went ahead on 20 minutes when a Tommy Brinkman free-kick from the right fell loose and Glenn Surety fired in.

Epping scored two more goals on 70 and 75 minutes with a powerful Chris Muir shot defeated the advancing keeper who was then beaten by a Shaun Garwood shot that bobbed.

Ladies into Essex Junior Cup semis

Tennis

HARLOW Ladies moved into the last four of the Essex Junior Cup with a 5 sets to 4 victory over hosts Redbridge.

Pat Kendall and Gill Fuller won 6-3, 6-4 in their first rubber playing against Redbridge's second pair, while Jan Sim and Laura Wills lost 2-6, 2-6 playing the No.1 pairing in this second round match.

Jan and Laura also won their second match, this time 6-3, 6-3.

Gill and Pat won their first game 7-5 in a thrilling tie-break to put Harlow into an unassailable lead.

Redbridge won the next two games 6-2, 6-1 to finish just one set adrift.

Praise for heroic speedway star

RYE House Rockets team manager John Sapsford praised Harlow's Luke Bowen as the youngster shone in his side's 48-42 home victory over Edinburgh Monarchs in speedway's Premier League.

The Hoddesdon team enjoyed a narrow advantage right up until Heat 14 when Bowen and Stefan Ekberg - who had earlier suffered a worrying fall which saw him smash through the pits bend safety barrier at speed - wrapped up a brilliant triumph for the home team with a 4-2 result.

Bowen was once again riding through the pain barrier, scoring an invaluable six points from seven outings.

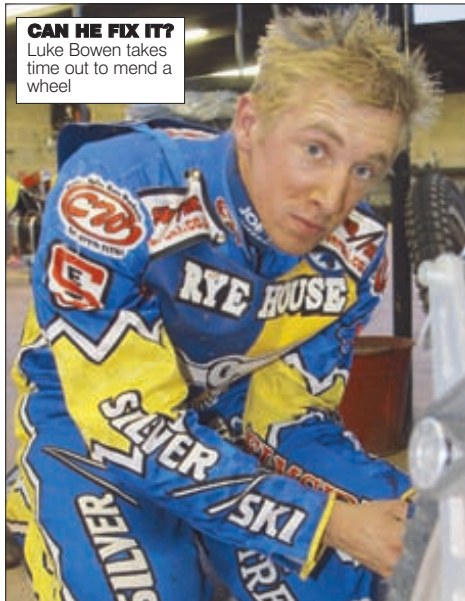

Sapsford said: "He was an absolute hero, he really gritted his teeth and did his bit for the side."

"He was crying in between races he was in so much pain," said Rockets promoter Len Silver.

Bowen (22) has lost a lot of strength since the injury, making it difficult to turn the bike into corners. "I'm going into the bends and I'm a bit tensed up. The shoulder's hurting a lot, but had I been riding injury free I would have probably got a maximum," he said.

Rye House scorers: C. Neath 12+1 (from five rides); R. Mear 9+1 (5); T. Woffinden 11+1 (5); S. Ekberg 9 (5); D. Halsey. 1 (3); L. Bowen 6+1 (7).

Cricket club recognises late stalwart

THE fantastic contribution to local cricket made by the late Frank Pavesi has been recognised by Harlow Town Cricket Club.

Pavesi, who died in 2004 when the Elizabeth Way club was known as Stort Cricket Club, has had the pavilion named after him.

The committee came up with the idea and Harlow MP Bill Rammell unveiled a plaque at a special ceremony attended by more than 100 people including those who had played with Pavesi.

Some had travelled far to see the opening with people attending from Leicester, Coventry and Hampshire. Pavesi was one of the founding members of the club in 1960. It started playing matches in 1961.

He was first team captain during the 1960s and 1970s and held the chairman and president's position throughout the 1990s.

Pavesi was committed to youth cricket and started The Stort Trophy which is played for by secondary schools primarily from Harlow.

His widow, Jean, who has done much work for the club over the years, said: "He liked seeing families go down there and younger children playing on the side while their dads played cricket - that's what our children did.

"Our son [Ray] has moved away but we've still got our grandson [Simon Rowell] in the first team."

The official name-changing ceremony was also marked by youngsters playing in the nets and having games while there was an adult competition in the afternoon for senior members.

Harlow Town have also introduced a system of giving caps to players who have been in the first team for two years and also awarded caps to those old players who had fulfilled these criteria.

Pace-setters Town seal a second win

Harlow Tn 226-4, Potter Street 178

Harlow won by 48 runs

(Lords International Herts & Essex Cricket League, division four)

HARLOW Town are the early season pacesetters, being the only team to have won both their games in division three of the Lords International Herts & Essex Cricket League.

Town laid the foundation for their second victory with a strong batting performance at close rivals Potter Street on Saturday.

Skipper Vic Goddard opened the batting and made 47 before he was bowled, and the visitors then lost three quick wickets as they slipped to 120-4.

However, Harlow got back on track as Ashley Alderson (83 not out) and Ron Yates (33 not out) put on an unbroken 106 for the fifth wicket guiding the visitors to 226-4 from 45 overs.

In reply, Chandon Katoch (45) and Shaurya Bastola (30) capitalised on inconsistent Town bowling, putting on 91 for the first wicket.

Left-arm spin twins Simon Rowell and Ron Yates picked up wickets but Street fought back with a few boundaries.

However, Goddard then took two crucial wickets and the tail was wrapped up by Dan Calver (3-28) as Street were dismissed for 178.

In division five, a Brian Lall half century and five-wicket haul for Charlie Coleman guided Harlow Town seconds (208-9) to a 78-run win at Farnham seconds (130).

Harlow Town thirds (114) lost to Little Bardfield (160-8) by 46 runs at home in division seven.

● SAWBRIDGEWORTH (208) lost by six wickets in their opening Home Counties Premier League division two east match against Potters Bar (214-4) on Saturday. On Sunday the side put on 151-3 to defeat Shepherds Bush (149) by seven wickets in the first round of the Evening Standard Challenge Trophy.

Beehan bait is key for Founder Cup

Angling

TACTICS proved crucial as Steve Beehan won the Founder's Cup at Willows Lake in St Albans.

Twenty-one Stort Valley Angling Society members travelled into Hertfordshire to battle it out for the Harlow club's competition.

The cold, blustery day was not the best conditions on this wide open fishery and many struggled to reach double figures.

Fishing a method feeder with maggot on the hook, the much-practised Beehan netted 44lbs 15ozs, with one mirror carp weighing in at 14lbs 3ozs, to lift the trophy.

Steve Turnbull chose different tactics to land 24lbs 10ozs of mostly bream to fill second spot.

Club chairman Mick Westby was third with just under 19lbs.

A meagre total weight of 191lbs 4ozs was landed by those present on what is normally a much more productive venue.

Athletes shine in Essex County Championships

POLLY Woods was the gold hero for Harlow Athletic Club at the Essex County Championships in Basildon.

The 15-year-old, competing in the U-17 triple jump, won with a leap of 10.34m.

This was despite the fact that her run up markers had been moved.

The Harlow teenager will now represent Essex at the Southern Counties Championships later this summer.

Her performance was one of a series of outstanding displays from the club and from other athletes from Harlow and beyond.

Polly just missed out on a place in the U-17 300m final.

Ty Roberts won gold in the masters (veterans) 100m in 12.04 seconds.

He also ran 55.65s in the 400m. This broke the previous Harlow club record of 55.90s.

Glen Paxman was 3rd in the senior men's 400m in 51.01s.

Lloyd Ellis gained a bronze in the 400m hurdles in 63 seconds.

In the U-17 boys 800m, Jamie Solomon produced a personal best (PB) time of 2:08, beating his best by four seconds. Club-mate Julian Tamplin competed in the same event and beat his PB by three seconds (2:11).

Laurence Fanutza-Davies gained a PB in the U-15 100m.

Completing the Harlow AC contingent was Sawbridge-worth's Sian Donovan.

Gloves are off – Butler

Captain puts faith in young wicket-keeper

SKIPPER James Butler will return to the Harlow side at Loughton this Saturday but will not take the over the gloves from teenage wicket-keeper Nino Calvino.

Butler, who is returning after recovering from a hernia operation and has previously been gloveman for Harlow, will only play as a specialist middle-order batsman.

He said: "He [Calvino] has done really well for us and he has got good hands. He stands up to the medium pacers and he will get better. Nino is also a good batsman."

Last Saturday, Harlow were put into bat at Marigolds by Fives & Heronians.

Openers Nilesh Odedra (46) and Nick Butler (24) both made reasonable progress against some tight bowling.

New signing Haroon Khan made 31 as Harlow reached 100 for the loss of three wickets with 20 overs left.

Useful contributions followed from Simon Baulcomb (26) and Zap Nazir (21), but the hosts lost their way and were unable to make a total that would put pressure on the visitors' batting line-up.

Harlow finished with 188-8 from their allotted 52 overs with Chris White being the pick of the visiting bowlers, taking 4-36.

The hosts were then left to rue Daniel Stevens being dropped in the gully by Khan off Kiwi seamer Tom Worthington when he was on 15.

Stevens, who put on 80 for the first wicket with Gary Edwards (32), then went on to play a match-winning knock of 69.

Ed Buxton (39) also played a valuable innings' for the visitors, for whom Rahul Bhome chipped in with 16.

Josh Peters (10 not out) and Ian Rotsey (10 not out) then guided Fives to victory with at least an over to spare.

Odedra (3-29) was the only Harlow bowler to enjoy any real success.

Skipper Butler, who was reduced to the role of frustrated onlooker, said: "They did bowl well and we did not push on. It was a flat deck [the wicket] and we needed to score at least 220. "Tom bowled well at the start without luck while Nilesh gave their batsmen no rest but the rest of the bowling was too inconsistent. Three out of six were bad balls."

Spinner Nick Toovey will replace the unavailable medium pacer Luke Heskett at Loughton.

Hawks catch Shrimpers

THE Hawks have lined up a second prestigious friendly. Ryan Kirby's side will face Football League side Southend United at Barrows Farm on Saturday July 19.

Harlow Town have already enticed Barnet to this corner of west Essex.

There could be plenty of familiar faces in the Shrimpers line-up. Strikers Rhys Henry and James Lindie, plus defender David Obaze were loaned to Harlow from Roots Hall last term.

Prices will be £5 adults (£2.50 concessions) and kids for £1.
